

BIG BIKE RIDE SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Very Precaution Will Be Taken to Care for Entrants.

The big bicycle run announced for Sunday afternoon will be open to all bicycle riders. It will cost you nothing to participate, and everyone who enters is assured of a bully good outing. There will be no racing. This event is simply a social way to get young and old into the fresh outdoors for the purpose of health and pleasure.

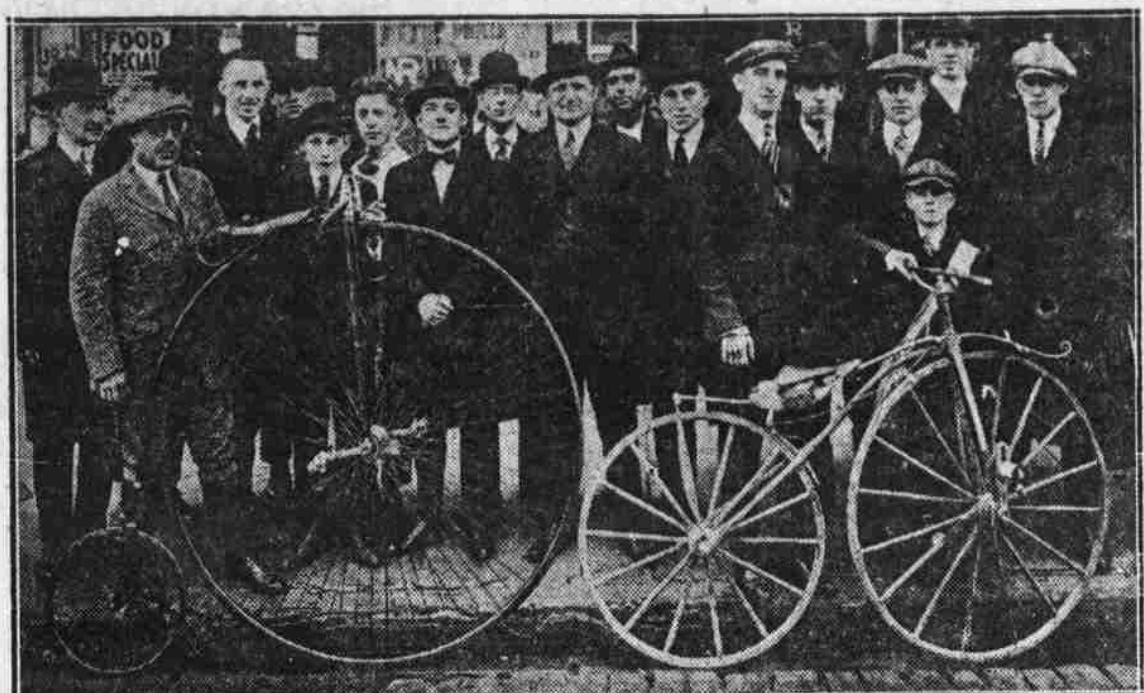

Every necessary precaution to make the run a big success will be taken by the local dealers who are sponsoring the event. Strict rules of the road will be observed from the time the riders start from Court square until they arrive at their destination.

A service car will follow the riders to take care of any bicycle trouble that might arise.

This big bicycle run will bring back fond recollections to many of the citizens of Memphis who rode a bicycle years ago, when it was a regular practice to take a long ride in the country, and when nearly every city, town and hamlet had its bicycle clubs.

The big bicycle run, an internationally famous cyclist, will act as the pacer, riding his old high bicycle. This will surely add novelty to the fair.

THESE BICYCLES FIRST IN HISTORY OF PEDALING SPORT

TWO OLD-TIME BICYCLES.

Photo shows two old-time wheels. Fred St. Ouge, famous bicycle rider and director of the big ride here fighting dynamo, weighed about 35 pounds.

We fished on down the river to a point near Cebollo, where our guide had pitched camp. Fred's "big one" rolled in corn meal and fried to a turn was the piece-de-resistance for our evening meal.

MARSHALL'S ANSWERS

In a recent article you stated that many cities were setting apart a portion of their public parks for shooting. What cities are doing this and why is it done?

DANIEL ERMATINGER.

Phoenix, Arizona.

Yes, many cities have established gun clubs in their public parks. Milwaukee, Kansas City, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago (now building a $35,000 clubhouse), Omaha and many others.

Canada is also making a popular drive for general recognition of the sport of trapshooting in their public parks, thus instructing the rising generation in the art of shooting.

Certain days of the week are designated instruction days, at which time ammunition and targets are furnished the boys by the municipality free of charge, this for a limited number of shots. General Pershing states, "Painstaking training and proficiency in the use of firearms is a great national asset as well as a personal asset." It has been said "This war has taught us that it pays to be prepared. We are prepared, we should remain so. Gen. Poch declares: "Accurate shooting ability, with a soldier, is 75 per cent efficiency." Mayors and city councils in every locality are urging upon the populace advisability and necessity for gun club organization. To this end they are granting shooting concessions in public parks. The element of danger is nil, as one hundred yards is the limit for fine shot to carry, with precision. Every city will eventually have trapshooting established in their public parks.

Do geese travel day or night? Are they classified as migratory birds?

JOHN MILLER.

Milwaukee, Wis.

Geese, when migrating, travel both day and night, their flight is both extended and rapid. Yes, geese are migratory birds.

President Thomas J. Hickey, of the American association, announces that the usual December meeting of the organization has been combined with the schedule meeting and that the combined meetings will be held in Chicago on February 15. President Hickey intimates he may have something to say soon on the reorganization plans for baseball.

Bob Tarleton, of the Galveston club, says he is going to have the best infield in the Texas league with Schiltgen on first, Dietel on second, Ellum at short and Grubb at third. Tarleton pays compliments to N. E. Leopold, new owner of the club, says he is a real sportsman and will give the fans of the Island City a winner if money and effort can do it.

An effort is being made to revive the old Arkansas league, with cities in Louisiana added. The movement starts from Pine Bluff, once a great little baseball city. The circuit would be made up of Pine Bluff, Helena and Hot Springs in Arkansas, Alexandria and Monroe in Louisiana and another city to be found.

TAD'S TID-BITS

There was quite some talk about heavyweights and their ages at Jack Doyle's billiard joint the other night.

Some of the gang insisted that Jack Dempsey right now is better than he will be a year from now. One guy insisted that at 26 a heavy-weight champion was sitting pretty. He figured that they start to go back at 27 or 28, and blow their laurels when they pass 30.

The fellow had figures, too. He showed that no heavyweight champion ever lost under the age of 30.

The list follows:

John L. Sullivan at the age of 34 was knocked out by Jim Corbett.

Jim Corbett was past 30 when he was knocked out by Fitzsimmons.

Fitzsimmons was 37 when he was knocked out by Corbett.

Jim Jeffries was 35 when Jack Johnson put the skids under him at Reno.

Jack Johnson was 37 when he played the dying gladiator to Jess Willard at Havana, Cuba.

Willard claims that he was 23 years of age when Dempsey dropped him at Toledo.

Thirty seems to be the dangerous age.

Tell me not, in mournful numbers, Life is but an empty dream.

For the soul is dead that has hit the hay.

And things are not what they appear to be in the advertisements.

I'LL TRY ANYTHING ONCE.

That's what George Young said when he ran his first six-day race at the Garden last year. It was a big success, but when someone suggested that they run another one right away, Young left them flat. He thought it would be a bust. The second race was the "best seller" that was ever pulled in New York, clearing up $54,000 for the promoter.

Young knows now that New York is a daffy place.

They won't fool him again, for he is starting a six-day race at One Hundred and Sixty-eighth street and Broadway in the Twenty-second Regiment Armory, on the 22d of this month.
